Metro cops to go on alert next week

By Jocelyn R. Uy

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL REGION POLICE Office (NCRPO) will go on alert beginning next week to ensure that no terrorist attacks or untoward incidents occur in the metropolis during the holiday season.

In a command conference yesterday, Interior Secretary Angelo Reyes, NCRPO chief Director Vidal Querol, the directors of the different Metro police districts and other police officials drew up measures to protect the public following three bombing incidents and the strafing of a building owned by First Gentleman Jose Miguel Arroyo last week.

According to Querol, only two groups could be behind the attacks. "It could be the NPA (New People's Army) or the destabilizers who wish to topple the government," he said.

The incidents, he stressed, were done to dampen the spirit of Christmas and "we would not allow these destabilizers to steal away Christmas from the heart and home of every Filipino."

Reyes, on the other hand, said that reports attributing the attacks to government forces were "unfair and unfounded."

"Coups talks remain. But we would like to assure the public that we monitor the situation and we are confident that we could handle any situation," he stressed.

Beginning next week, the NCRPO, in coordination with the national police and the military, will intensify intelligence information gathering and beef up the defense of "soft" spots in the metropolis such as transport systems and oil depots, among others.

The police will also implement security measures in time for the start of the midnight mass or "Simbang Gabi," Senior Supt. Felipe Rojas, NCRPO Intelligence chief, told the INQUIRER.

Vendors banned in overpasses

By Nancy C. Carvajal

VENDORS SELLING THEIR WARES ON pedestrian overpasses and sidewalks will no longer be tolerated in Quezon City, according to Mayor Feliciano Belmonte.

"It is imperative that we bring back order along the city's main thoroughfares and not allow vendors to use them for their illegal activities," the mayor said in a statement issued yesterday.

He ordered the city's Market Development and Administration Development offices to immediately clear pedestrian overpasses of vendors and demolish illegal structures on sidewalks.

The mayor, in particular, cited the overpasses along Manggahan and Litex Roads in Commonwealth.

The two structures, Belmonte said, "have virtually been transformed into vendors' homes." Cases of petty crimes such as robbery, and purse snatching have also gone up in overpasses, he added.

He asked the Quezon City Police District to prevent vendors from encroaching on the three-lane Commonwealth Avenue from Philcoa to Litex Road in Fairview, where traffic usually builds up during the Yuletide season.

Bonifacio and Samson Roads which are near the Balintawak public market will also be off limits to vendors, Belmonte added, as well as the sidewalks in Cubao and Aurora Boulevard.

The mayor, however, assured vendors that he has designated several sites where they can sell their goods without obstructing pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

There's a big difference between a good idea and a great idea. The difference is in the execution. A good idea is a concept that is novel and useful. A great idea is a concept that is novel, useful, and executable. The difference is in the execution. A good idea is a concept that is novel and useful. A great idea is a concept that is novel, useful, and executable.

MEMOIRS

I feel a maternal urge, one that transcends ethnic, racial and religious boundaries. I have been pregnant for more than 10 years, but called barren wife.

As this question grew, I found out I was never pregnant. And still, this urge is a constant. It is not love, but a need to be loved, to be needed.

A few months later, I stopped reading, and I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.

I was not really listening, but I was not really listening. I was not really listening, but I was not really listening.
